

9/11 Hijackers

How many people know that at least seven (reported from early 2003) or possibly nine of the 19 hijackers named by the FBI are still alive?

What did they do, parachute? Were they really on those four planes?

How many people know that the Bush family and the Bin Laden family have long been very close?

(it's been mentioned in the movie Fahrenheit 9/11) For example:

starting in 1975 when Osama Bin Laden's older brother Salem financed the young George Bush in his very first business with his very own oil company, Arbusto Energy Inc.

In the events of September 11, 2001, while the attacks were underway, President Bush sat stiffly in a Florida elementary classroom, reading a goat story with dozens of schoolchildren. His aide Andy Card came toward him and whispered in his ear about the breaking news in Lower Manhattan, New York, but Bush as a commander in chief, continued reading for twenty minutes while America was under attack. Later he told three different versions of how he felt during those world-changing moments.

In those first moments after the tragedy: Vice President Dick Cheney, national security adviser Condoleezza Rice, and military chief Richard Myers all insisted that the government had no idea something like this could happen, that commercial airliners could be used as missiles to pierce the heart of America, but they were able to furnish the names of 19 Arab hijackers (see below) within 72 hours, or when later it was revealed that the government had been studying this problem for ten years and that very day was running a drill to practice how to cope with this precise threat. As it stands now, perhaps the true perpetrators of the sudden sacrifice of more than 3,000 people remain unidentified. (I have updated a very important information in the section of Real Perpetrators in 2004; please read that interview thoroughly as the enigma has been solved finally.)

Alleged Pilot

The FBI still says these are the terrorists.¹⁴ But when they are found alive, the FBI says their identity was stolen, and it's not the terrorist.¹⁵

Remember that suspicious bin Laden "confession" video?

- How could he praise uninvolved living people¹² for the 9/11 hijackings?

- If they stole identities, how did the FBI identify those passengers as terrorists?

Not by flight calls, which contradict the FBI¹³ information.

- These aren't the first mistakes. FBI quickly had amended the original list⁸, as the original "suicide hijackers" came forward.

Witness Arrested; 25 Held for Questioning

Two of 19 suspects named by the FBI, Saeed Alghamdi and Ahmed Alghamdi, have the same names as men listed at a housing facility for foreign military trainees at Pensacola. Two others, Hamza Alghamdi and Ahmed Alnami, have names similar to individuals listed in public records as using the same address inside the base. In addition, a man named Saeed Alghamdi graduated from the Defense Language Institute at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, while men with the same names as two other hijackers, Mohamed Atta and Abdulaziz Alomari, appear as graduates of the U.S. International Officers School at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., and the Aerospace Medical School at Brooks Air Force Base in San Antonio, respectively.

Now he is protesting his innocence from Casablanca, Morocco.

CNN - FBI: Early probe results show 18 hijackers took part 9/13/01

Based on information from multiple law enforcement sources, CNN reported that Adnan Bukhari and Ameer Bukhari of Vero Beach Florida, were suspected to be two of the pilots who crashed planes into the World Trade Center. CNN later learned that Adnan Bukhari is still in Florida, where he was questioned by the FBI. We are sorry for the misinformation. A federal law enforcement source now tells CNN that Bukhari passed an FBI polygraph and is not considered a suspect. Through his attorney, Bukhari says that he is helping authorities. Ameer Bukhari died in a small plane crash last year.

Some of those involved in the plot left suicide notes, but they are not believed to have been the hijackers, a government source told The Associated Press. It was unclear whether those who left the notes actually killed themselves.

He also claimed that his son had called him two days after the attack, and described it as "a normal conversation." But he snarled when asked to give further details. Asked what country Muhammad had called from, he said, "The name of the country isn't written on the phone." Asked where Muhammad was now, he said, "Ask Mossad."

Wrong

Many of the investigators believe that some of the initial clues that were uncovered about the terrorists' identities and preparations, such as flight manuals, were meant to be found. A former high-level intelligence official told me, "Whatever trail was left was left deliberately--for the F.B.I. to chase."

In interviews over the past two weeks, a number of intelligence officials have raised questions about Osama bin Laden's capabilities. "This guy sits in a cave in Afghanistan and he's running this operation?" one C.I.A. official asked. "It's so huge. He couldn't have done it alone." A senior military officer told me that because of the visas and other documentation needed to infiltrate team members into the United States, a major foreign intelligence service might also have been involved.

At Freeway Airport in Bowie, Md., 20 miles west of Washington, flight instructor Sheri Baxter instantly recognized the name of alleged hijacker Hani Hanjour when the FBI released a list of 19 suspects in the four hijackings. Hanjour, the only suspect on Flight 77 the FBI listed as a pilot, had come to the airport one month earlier seeking to rent a small plane.... However, when Baxter and fellow instructor Ben Conner took....Hanjour on three test
